The Global Outsourcing 100 list is based on the results of a rigorous review of the companies' competencies conducted by the Evaluation Team of judges. "As the economy recovers, partnering with the world's best outsourcing providers will be more important than ever," said Michael Corbett, IAOP chairman and chair of the judges' panel. "In a year that was challenging for most, being able to confirm our position among the global leaders demonstrates our clients' trust in EPAM's top quality service capabilities, as well as in our financial stability and maturity, that allowed us to share mutual risks during those difficult times and still to grow together," said Arkadiy Dobkin, President and CEO of EPAM Systems. "We look forward to capitalizing on this new level of partnership further during this much more optimistic 2010".
